Index

accommodation for music teaching, 6, 195 action research methodology, 116 et seq, 200 advisers (LEA, for music), 6, 187 advisory teachers and co-ordinators, 6, 9, 83 affective activity, music as, 205 African music, 24, 107, 172–3
America (USA), choral singing in, 74; influence upon Japanese music education, 157; early music education in, 254–5; analysis, 29, 33, 37, 54, 189; of classical music, 216; of pupils' tonal music, 94–7; of music compared with language, 102 arranging music for the classroom, 173–4 arts: economics of, 183–4; as communication, 15–16, 57, 58, 70, 99–100, 103; twentieth century developments in, 245; education, the future of, 184, 188; learning process in, 205, 206, 240; provide opportunities for self-expression, 246; Arts Learning Process (Education Department of Tasmania, 1985),199 assemblies (school), music in, 12 assessment, 13; of pupils' compositions, 27, 46–7; children's learning in music, 82; awarding marks, 211; of individuals' contributions to ensembles, 214; subjective, 215; reliability in assessment of performance, 219 Associated Board of the Royal Schools of Music (ABRSM), 41, 136, 209, 223; piano grade 3 (1994), 216; revised aural testing syllabus, 219, 249–50; original aim of examinations, 209–10 atmosphere, musical, 22, 23 aural acuity, 33, 34; tested in graded instrumental examinations, 215, 219; of conductors, 66; advanced training in, 165–67 Australia, teacher preparation in, 198 background music, effects of, 240 baroque music, 34–36, 40

BBC music programmes for schools, 184, 194 brass bands, 214
breadth and balance in examination requirements, 218 British music education, 81–2, 183; Muslim attitudes to, 143–56; creative music-making in, 157
BTEC Diploma in Performing arts, 109

Caribbean music, 172–3 challenge in education, 242 changes in music education 82, 183, 184, 185–6, 221, 244, 251–2; creative response to, 130 communication skills, between teacher and student, 232 et seq; of conductors, 70–3 competitiveness in music, 212 composing,11, 188, 189, 194; related to listening and appraising, 14–55, 167–8; teaching techniques for, 6, 17, 18 et seq, 41–2, 168–9, 197, 199, 200, 244; ideas for, 22, 40–47, 167–8, 250, 251; children's subconscious sense of tonality in, 93–8; musical background of pupils, 19; London Sinfonietta projects in, 131; discussion, importance of, 17–18, 29,

Copyright © 1994 Cambridge University Press

32, 49–50; problems, 27; National Curriculum projects in, 187; as part of a teacher training course, 201, 202–4; instrumentalists as composers, 41 conducting: effective, 57, 61, 73; qualities of a conductor, 59, 63–4, 70–3; rehearsal techniques, 64–70; research literature, 60; methodologies, 61–4, 65, 69, 73 confidence, teachers', 3, 12, 193, 194, 195, 197, 251 conformity in education, 240
'conservatory system' of performance studies, 223 contrasts, musical, 18, 21
Council for Education, Music and the Arts, 185 creativity and the learner, 16, 29, 235, 236, 239, 242, 245–6; apparent conflict with convergent thinking, 240; not limited to the arts, 246 curriculum policy and planning, 5, 12, 13, 18, 82; lack of, 193; creative features of, 239, 245; practical basis of music curriculum, 12; training student teachers in, 205; balance in, 242; cross-curriculum planning, 5
Czech Music Society, balance of national and international concerns, 240–1

Department for Education, 187; 1990 DES survey of music in schools, 189 differences, appreciation of a basis for progress, 240 discrimination, musical, 21, 34; encourages, self-criticism, 243 diversity in music education, 181, 186, 187, 189 early childhood, music in,184, 197–207; teacher-training for, 198, 200 education: change in, 82, 184–5; purpose of/in, 184, 189, 199, 242–3; informal, 246; favours conformity, 246 employment of musicians,183 ensembles (choirs, bands, etc) in schools, 4, 34; importance of confirmed by GCSE, 214; encourage sight-reading skills, 218; rehearsing and conducting, 57–8, 64–70, 252; choral singing in Britain, 74 entitlement to musical education, 182 European 'classical' tradition: repertoire, 17, 139, 168, 194, 217; rooted in tonality,101; significance of notation in, 104, 107; a central concern of Japanese school curriculum, 118; improvising, playing from memory and by ear neglected in, 220 examination-taking, intrinsic motivation of, 210, 215 examiners, faith in judgements of, 211 flute, 257–8

form, musical, 19, 40; non-discursive (Langer), 62–3 funding for music education, 182, 183, 184, 187, 190

GCSE Music, 40–47, 138, 183; listening syllabus, 40, 41; performance an important part of, 21; composing required in, 136; significance of notation in, 108–9; improvisation an option in, 220 generalist teachers: music courses for, 197, 198; responsible for music, 5, 9, 12, 186; quality of their music teaching underrated, 191, 194, 251; indications of success, 193; perceptions of music lessons, 194 good practice, principles of, 191; spreading for benefit of teachers and pupils, 196 governors (of schools), 189 graded instrumental examinations: fulfil a need, 210: structure of, 211; pupils' musical development, 212; may encourage loneliness in musical study, 214; aims and intentions of, 215, 219; possible conflict of aims, 213; compared with other examinations; 213 uninfluenced by changes in educational thinking, 221; technical exercises analysed, 216–7; set pieces for, 217–8; sight reading tests in, 218–9; aural tests in, 219, 220; missing elements of, 219–20; range of instruments examined by, 219; singers expected to perform from memory, 220

Guildhall School of Music and Drama, Department of Performance and Communication Skills, 130, 140; graded instrumental examinations, 209; viva voce examinations, 214 harmony, 22

history of music, 3, 11, 12, 79–80, 84–5, 87–8, 194, 258–9; linked with instrumental teaching 34, 214; importance of for conductors, 63; history of women in music, 177–8 hurdles for young musicians, 210 ideas, musical, 27 et seq, 50–54 imagination, 243, 245 improvising, 11, 219; tradition of in jazz and folk music, 220; as an element of degree courses, 220, an option in GCSE, 220 Incorporated Society of Musicians, 209 infant schools, 5; music activities for, 251 initial training of teachers, music tuition in, 13, 187, 197, 199; students' musical development in, 202 inspection of schools, 191, 192 in-service courses for teachers (INSET), 3, 6, 13, 140, 187 instrumental teaching and learning: vital to the acceptance of music in schools, 186; in decline, 5, 185; not required by the National Curriculum, 183; payment for, 5, 182, 184, 186: linked to analytical listening, 16; links with composing, 16, 19, 20, 33; graded examinations in, 209–21; teachers' reputations dependent upon their pupils, 212; at tertiary level, 223; practising, levels of, 217; research in, 224; method, 227–30; success in, 235 instruments, used in classroom teaching, 11, 22, 25, 193; badly organised, 194; focus upon in teacher training, 198 integration, principle of, 241; common purpose, 243; implies belonging, 244; European, 245, 246

Japan, music education in, 113, 114, 124, 125; concern with European music, 118; creative music education, 157–62; Taisho era, new trends, 158; Kinoshita's 'Gesamtunterricht', 159–161; philosophy of child-centred music education, 161
Jaques-Dalcroze, E, 114–5 jazz, piano, 257; musicians, skills of, 220 knowledge, acquisition of, 242 language and music, 5, 17, 199, 251; neurological perceptions of, 102–3; examinations in languages and music compared, 212; language an aspect of identity, 241; music as language, 99–101; Language of Music (module in BTEC diploma), 109 learning, theory, 199, 242; collaborative learning (in teacher education), 204; gestalt learning, 211; indirect, 245 legislation: Education Act (1988), 4; Education Act (1993), 187 listening, as a learning process, 14, 19, 29; and appraising, 5, 11, 12, 14–55, 194, 214; assignments in, 167; focusing pupils' listening, 18, 32; developed through group activities, 47–50; related to pupils' performing experience, 213; fostered by musical games, 251

LEA provision for music, 183, 184, 185, 187, 190, 191; guidance on Muslim views for music teachers, 144–5
Local Management of Schools (LMS), 4, 182, 184, 187
London College of Music, graded instrumental examinations, 209 London Sinfonietta education projects, 129–41 meaning in music, 146–48, 153, 213, 214 motivation, 22, 188, 189; provided by graded examinations, 210, 212; extrinsic and intrinsic (Sloboda), 214–5 movement and music, 113–127, 251

Music Advisers' National Association (MANA) 181
'musical' playing (performance style), 229–30 music co-ordinators, 5, 9, 13; training colleagues, 9, 13 Music Education Council (MEC, formerly UKCMET), 181 music education, uniformity in questionable, 243 Music for Youth, 181
musicianship, development of, 213; vital aspects of not covered by graded instrumental examinations, 221 musicology, 253–4
Music Teaching in Private Practice (course, University of Reading), 209 music technology, 88–9, 185, 188; module in BTEC diploma, 109; KS 1 and 2 requirements, 251 music therapy, 85–7, 251; fundraising year, 163–4
Music Working Group (National Curriculum), 3, 14, 186
Muslim schools and youth culture, 143; debate about music, 144, 145–53

National Confederation of Parent-Teachers (NCPTA), 12
National Curriculum, Music: expectations of pupils, 110, 214; requirements, 6–8, 13, 14, 99, 136, 183, 186, 189, 195, 250; links with GCSE, 108; implementation of, 3, 8–12, 82, 183, 193, 194; future of, 182, 184, 185; targets for, 196; in primary schools, 187; Interim Report (Dearing 1993), 12, 185, 196; first year of operation, 191–6; London Sinfonietta projects linked with, 131; effect upon instrumental teaching, 223; Muslim views on, 143, 149 notation, 3, 11, 99–111, 194; staff notation not required for primary National Curriculum, 195; inappropriate teaching of, 195; not the only route to musicianship, 213; attention to in teacher training, 198, 201; 'graphic', 202; 'shaped', 225 number skills and music, 5

OFSTED, 191; Handbook for the Inspection of Schools, 11, 192 originality, 240

pedagogy of music education, 16, 18, 22, 223; traditional, reflected in teacher training, 197; intentions of, 226 performance in schools, 4–5, 181 et seq, 189; choral conducting, 57–8, 60, 62–3, 67–8; choral singing, 185; song lyrics not relevant to pupils, 194; repertoire, 251; 'musicals' for children, 259–62 performance, treatises on, 223, 254–5; traditions in illogical, 220 Performing and Composing (National Curriculum), 214 PGCE, students' competence in conducting ensembles, 57 philosophy, of music teaching, 81; of music, 253–4 pianists, dictionary for, 258 playing by ear and from memory, 219; neglected skills, 220 popular music, 83–4 primary schools, 3–14, 81–3, 186–7; range of practice in, 191, 196; quality of music lessons in, 193, 197; provide better start to NationalCurriculum than secondary schools, 196 progress (pupils'), 108, 192; not considered, 194; measured by graded examinations, 211; in higher instrumental studies, 233 professional musicians, working in schools, 129–41, 186; relationship with teachers, 138; contrasted with pedagogues, 223 quality in music education, 182, 183 et seq, 188, 191, 192 repertoire, 11; songs for schools, 170–2; for wind instruments, 174–6; for graded examinations, 213; 217–218, 221 research methods, 3–4, 80–1, 116–124, 199, 223, 224–6, 238 resources for music teaching, 3, 5, 6, 195; survey of, 4, scales and arpeggios, 36, 37, 38, 219; as elements of graded examinations, 215, 216–7; studies a possible alternative for, 217, 218 Schools Council Project, Music in the Secondary School Curriculum, 16, 183 secondary schools, 14–55; sustaining music in, 186; range of practice in, 191, 192, 195; dialogue with primary teachers, 196 sight reading, 34, 37, 38, 219; in graded examinations, 215, 218–9; encouraged by ensemble playing singing, 5, 193; new song collections for schools, 170–2; in Japanese schools, 158 skill learning, in music education, 186, 194, 239; in teacher training, 197, 198; in solo instrument and ensemble playing, 214; related to different musical traditions, 219 Special Needs education, 169, 251 spiral of musical development (Swanwick/Tillman), 198 staffing for music in schools, 12, 13 standards in learning and teaching, criteria for, 192 structure, musical, 104, 131–2, 239, 247 studies, used in instrumental teaching, 217, 218; graded, 255–6 style, musical, 22, 34; baroque characteristics, 34–35, 40; knowledge of related to performing, 214; categories of set pieces in graded examinations, 217 teachers of music: expertise, 3, 57, 188, 191, 194, 195, 197, 200; specialist, 5, 9, 12, 13, 193; perceptions of National Curriculum, 8–9, 191; roles, 12, 226; training, 184, 185, 187, 198; professional development of, 196; work-related stress more likely than with other teachers, 195; instrumental teachers, 223; personality of, effect on pupils, 226, 230 et seq, 236 teaching, methodology, contrasted with philosophy, 242; qualities essential to effective teaching, 243 timetabling music in schools, 5 titles (of pupils' compositions), 27 Trinity College of Music, graded instrumental examinations, 209; viva voce examinations, 214, 219 twentieth century music, importance of in education, 242; future of new music, 135 understanding, development of, 247; abstraction an aid to, 242; musical, in children, 16, 17, 29, 33, 195, 213; affect of movement upon, 113–127 variety, richness of, 244 et seq vocal compositions by pupils, 24, 31 wind ensembles, 214; music for, 176–7 women in music, 177–8 111